

The Career Route Planner

Now you have selected one of the job role videos please complete the following task. Plot a learning route from where you are now to being qualified and in that role. There may be a number of different routes available to you. Using the websites below and your local college website to help you research, complete the boxes to demonstrate a route you could take to get to that role. Start by following the link at the end of the video to the corresponding job role details on the National Careers Service website.

Where I am starting from:

Step 1:

Step 2:

Step 3:

Step 4 (final step, what job role have you selected):

Think about what work experience / work shadowing you could do and where in your career route planner you could move this to? What new skills would be useful to gain when you are doing this that would help you on your journey? E.g. Ecologist work shadowing, helping with take pond samples and writing up into a report the findings or using a spreadsheet to monitor (IT skills).

Skills:

As you have researched and worked up your plan, was there a quality that you don't currently have or need to improve upon, that was mentioned in the National Careers

Service page? Write it in the box below and give a suggestion of how you might gain / improve on that quality e.g. teamwork; join a sports team or club and improve your skills of working with others, listening; spend time improving your active listening, try not to interrupt when others are talking, communication; take on opportunities to talk / present / draw to different groups of people in school or at a local youth club about an idea / hobby.

Solution:

What's the challenge and how can you smash through it? Sometimes we find a barrier blocks our journey, give an example of something that could stop you achieving your end goal, can you think of a solution to get past this? E.g. Transport to destination of job / college / uni. Not gaining the qualifications you might need to progress in school, there are opportunities to retake examinations at college so you can still follow the path you have chosen with additional support. Finance of course.

Challenge:

Solution:

Final destination. You have reached your end goal, congratulations! In the box below write two words that you imagine would describe how you would feel to reach your goal.
